CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

The motto was as simple as our vision, to ensure that shipping globally is as easy as a courier service and hence our tag-line, "We make shipping Globally easy".

 VISHNUKANTH P
CHAIRMAN & MANAGING DIRECTOR

Vishu has over 2 decades of expertise in the logistics arena and has maneuvered shipments alongside with his team across every corner of the globe in any mode of transport. His vision and commitment to drive the organization to the optimum level of customer satisfaction and trust and in managing their business worldwide has earned a train of clientele to GLS.

We started Globeline Shipping in 2008. A time when recession had badly hit the world and unfortunately everyone was struggling to survive.

Our vision was simple though and we wished to provide end to end solutions to all importers and exporters consisting of manufacturers and traders, doing shipments across the globe - seamlessly interweaving any POL and POD in the world.. The motto was as simple as our vision, to ensure that shipping globally is as easy as a courier service and hence our tag-line, "We make shipping Globally easy".

We started small with freight forwarding but with hardwork and persistent commitment we today are into trucking, warehousing and custom clearance. We now have our presence in the USA, India, Qatar, UK and Europe and also are expanding to Africa and HongKong in the near future.. Our plan is to continue to have our own warehouses and fleet of trucks across the globe so we can provide the best service at optimum costs to our clients.

I am ecstatic to announce that we have recently started our Air Freight division, covering all three modes of transport and are working to have a fleet size of 250 chassis both in East and West coasts of the USA by the year 2025.

Allow us to grow your business globally through safe, seamless and smart shipment solutions!

We are today's gold standard in everything from warehousing to fulfilment, transportation, and beyond.

CUSTOMS CLEARANCE

All goes well if things that need to get sorted out are spotted and cleared in the right sequence and in the right manner.

The same applies to the part of Customs clearance for shipments. Booking shipments on appropriate carriers, checking time schedules, allocating transportation services, following up with track and trace is not what is all. The crux to getting the cargo customs cleared is vital to it all.

Apparently, we at GLS provide innovative customer service through dedicated customer support teams, who keep track of where we get to hoard the cargo in an agile way, and in a global presence. As warehouse services providers, we can construct, recommend, acquire, control, and manage assets for our clients. Clients can use these services to free up working capital for new investments that increase profits. Business models may change over time, requiring our clients to use different assets. Rather than underusing these assets, we plan to re-allocate them to other logistics services.

TRACK AND TRACE

What gets measured gets managed – likewise what is tracked upon reaches its destination in the stipulated time with no hiccups.

And added to this is the undoubted fact that we fall accountable for the shipments GLS handles and we take complete responsibility till the entire process is seen a sail.

Track and trace at GLS are done in a more efficient and high-tech manner through our own software application that would be able to track the exact location on the GPRS of the shipment. This also goes one step higher to give you a precise history of the sail and the relevant documentation details as well.

Tracking and tracing are a system utilized by various transport and logistics providers to record the movement of goods and deliverables at all stages of the transportation journey. Items are identified at every processing location, and any associated information is recorded and entered a central processing system. These records are then used to provide location and status updates to shippers and receivers.

Real time tracking

Real-time tracking is just what it sounds like: It provides the exact location of a transport vehicle or goods shipment now (or close to it). Real-time location data is repeatedly pulled and uploaded to a server after a set number of minutes, hours, or days. For example, if your system is set up to track a shipment every two hours, you will at the very least come to know where your shipment was less than two hours ago.

Our App provides increased shipment visibility to its clients. A new way to display shipment visibility, tracking, analytics, notifications, and updates that include document viewing, uploads, and display of shipment milestones.

Shipment Visibility

Enable your clients to easily track orders on a map or via reports. Let them know exactly where and when their shipment is going before it reaches the destination. Download and share shipment reports anywhere, anytime.

Milestones

Display milestones relevant to your customers with gestures to make life easier. View shipment related information in detail so your clients can plan their business operations with ease.

OUR IT HIGHWAY

We retain state-of-the-art technology, a best-in-class infrastructure, and high levels of automation in port and vessel operations, making their experience more convenient and enjoyable. We can maintain our clients' trust and confidence through value for money.

Maintaining rewarding relationships with our customers is essential, but improving our service is also part of our mission. We benefit from increased customer retention, revenue growth, brand recognition, and sustainability. Businesses all over the world strive to run efficiently and effectively. Organize multiple functions on multiple levels. We face great challenges as a logistics organization. IT can provide business and operational management. Our reliance on information technology encompasses so many aspects of our daily lives that we are oblivious to their importance.

A business can greatly benefit from IT by simplifying processes, reducing impediments, and decreasing human error risks significantly. By leveraging IT appropriately, businesses of all types can gain a distinct advantage, irrespective of their size. As organizations have grown increasingly dependent on technology, this function has become strategically important. As a leading organization in the Ports sector, we utilize many IT-based tools.
